RATINGS

AUGUST 1993

1st August, 1993

All players active since 1st January, 1992

Advertising

The ratings booklet now takes advertising. Rates are $60 per page, $30 per half, $15 per quarter.

The ratings booklet is probably the most-read chess publication in Australia: players are always anxious to learn their new rating, and the ratings of their friends, and to see whose rating is increasing most rapidly, who are the strongest players, and so on. Some players carry it as part of their chess "kit," to look up the ratings of their opponents and record them in the space provided on scoresheets.

It is an excellent vehicle to carry messages to all Australia's active chess players.

Would-be advertisers should contact Robert Jamieson (PO Box 716, Mt Waverley, 3149) for further information.

Wanted

A copy of Elo's book, The Rating of Chessplayers, Past & Present.

I need a copy of this book as a reference work in considering possible changes to the Australian Ratings System.

Anyone with a copy to spare is urged to contact John Summerfield on (03) 888 8842.

Introduction

Changes

While producing this ratings booklet, I discovered that players could play nine or more games, lose (or win) them all, and the ratings program would still give them a rating.

This led me to check how the ratings program calculates changes to provisional ratings. I found I obtained different results depending on how the player's starting provisional rating was earned. I manually calculated the new rating for two players whose provisional rating was 1121: A scoring 4/8 against players averaging 112, B scoring 1/8 from a field averaging 1457. I then gave them each a win against a player rated about 1200, and found that player B's new rating was about 50 greater than A's.

The ratings system keeps track of games played, both for the period being processed and total since inception of this ratings system, but not the player's score. Therefore, to correct the errors outlined above, all players who had played fewer than nine rated games before this period, including all new players, will not have a confirmed rating until they have played thirty games and scored at least 2/30 (6.7%) and less than 100%. Players who have played nine or more games will have their provisional ratings published, but suffixed with a "p". Provisional ratings are to be used for seeding players in tournaments and so on: because they are provisional, ratings changes are calculated differently from those for players with established ratings.

Provisional ratings are now used for calculating ratings of other players.

Before rating tournament results in this period, I examined all player records, classifying them according to the number of games players have played: players who have played nine or more games continue to have confirmed ratings as published previously. Players who have played fewer than nine games are classified as having scored 50% against a group of players whose average rating is equal to the subject player's current rating.

These changes affect the ratings of all players. Authors and users of other programs that calculate ACF ratings will need to make equivalent changes.

Please note that up to now all players have been assigned a rating after they have played one or more ratable games, and before I was National Ratings Officer these were published.

We now have several possible ratings categories on the player file:

New players never played a rated game.

Unrated Played one or more rated games, score doesn't allow them to obtain a provisional rating or played fewer than nine games.

Provisional Played nine or more games but fewer than 30, score exceeds 6.7%. Additional losses can return provisionally-rated players to unrated status.

Confirmed Players who have played 30 or more games, scored 2/30 or more but less than 100%. In addition, players who had confirmed ratings on the April 1993 list continue to have confirmed ratings.

Player file cleanup

The ACF wishes to improve the quality of the information stored in its player file. To that end, players who have been inactive for over two years and who have played fewer than 30 games will be removed from the player file regularly.

Additionally, we wish to have better information about those players who are still playing chess. In many cases, we have only surname and an initial to identify players. In some cases we have even less information.

Coming changes

I am developing a replacement ratings system, and so I will not make changes to the old one except to correct bugs. Problems with the current ratings system include errors in ratings calculations, slow performance and it's not particularly easy to use. It also seems to lack reliability: it has trouble finding players after updating ratings. Entering tournament results is a time-consuming and error-prone task. Those states who've had the same State Ratings Officer for years don't know how much they owe them!

Errata

In the previous ratings booklet, Guy's comments alluded to correspondence ratings. Due to a last-minute decision about space (it would have cost $60.00 to add another sheet of paper), the correspondence ratings and Tables 1 & 2, used in calculating ratings, were omitted. Guy was also concerned that readers may believe my comments (beginning "Ratings Accuracy," page 3) were his.

Ratings accuracy

A question that all players (and administrators) should ask, is "How accurate is a rating?" Professor Elo developed most of the theory behind the FIDE and USCF ratings systems on which ours is based. Elo defined a class interval as the difference in playing strength between (national) Masters and International Masters, and between International Masters and Grand Masters. Of course, there is no absolute difference: there are some IMs stronger than some GMs, and then there are other GMs.

He assigned the class interval a value of 200 ratings points, to quantify a rather vague notion and allow it to be processed mathematically.

Elo has a table in his book, "The Rating of Chessplayers, Past & Present," in which he details in various ways how (im)precise ratings are. But first, consider this.

In the first round of a swiss tournament, a very strong player, say over 2300, blunders into a two-move mate. What does that say about his opponent's playing strength?

According to Elo, after nine games we can be 71% certain that a player's performance rating is within one half a class interval (100 points) of his actual playing strength. After 20 games, we reach 88% and at 30 games 95% certain that the indicated value is within 100 points of the "true" value.

These are the theoretical limitations of the ratings. Administrative errors, such as mis-recording a result, can increase the uncertainty. This actually happened to me, and it made a difference to my rating of 30.

Similarly, a blunder such as that I mentioned above will add 15 or 30 points to a player's rating, and distort the rating. Over a short run, these incidental distortions are quite large. Over time, their effects are reduced, and counter-balanced by other errors. This does, however, highlight the imprecision of ratings systems.

Information in the Reports

The reports contained in the ratings booklet provide information tournament organisers need for ranking players in tournaments. The information contained is also of considerable interest to players: we are all interested in our own ratings: are we getting better? or worse? Do the rating changes reflect our own perceptions? How are our friends/peers/rivals going?

I, for one, have long been interested in the Top nn reports, and they were probably the most-read part of the VCA's magazine, On The Move.

However, it's not immediately apparent to new readers what all the numbers mean.

In each report, the first column is the rating, the measure of the player's playing strength. The Top Players report is generally headed by Rogers, Johansen & Solomon. It's immediately apparent that bigger numbers represent stronger players. Closer examination of the Top xx reports reveals that it's possible for several players to have the same rating. If players are equal in strength, that's reasonable.

In the Top Under nn reports, the next column is the player's age at the beginning of the year. This age is used to determine players eligibility for some tournaments, and combine with rating, to select players for World and Asian Under Age tournaments. If you're a junior with hopes of representing Australia in international tournaments, these will give you some idea of the standard to reach.

The Top Improvers report shows the amount the player's rating has increased in the rating period. An increase of 100 will usually get a player into the top 20 improvers, 200+ is exceptional, while 300+ is SO! (Simply Outstanding).

Each of the Top xx reports also shows the players' registered state.

The Active Player list is divided into states. Details shown are rating, number of games played in the latest rating period, and, of course, the player's name.

The rating The rating column needs some explanation, since it doesn't always contain a rating.

Confirmed ratings are shown as three or four digit numbers. Provisional ratings are shown by a "p" following the rating. Provisional ratings should be used for seeding players in tournaments, and are used in calculating ratings for other players.

Players who have played fewer than nine games have, instead of a rating, a single-digit number followed by "R" — the number is the number of games remaining to be played before the player's rating can be listed.

In some cases, the rating is shown as "Unr" — this means the player has not qualified for a provisional or confirmed rating.

This Period's Reports

Few will be surprised to see the Rogers, Johansen & Solomon at the top. Jamieson has overtaken Davidovic. Australian Champion Aleks Wohl has moved up the list and past 2300. Australian Junior Champion J P Wallace has built on his last-period improvement and improved one position. V Feldman slipped down the list without changing his rating!

The top Under 20s are also headed by the same three, with J P consolidating his already commanding position. Baron & Curtis, Rutherford & O'Carroll have swapped places.

There's been more action in the Under 16s with Leskiewicz jumping into second spot. Victorians Chow, McDonald & Low all improved their ratings but lost ground. Cordover has come from nowhere to land into 13th place. Charles Pizatto (aged 12) held onto sixth place.

The top three Under 12s are as last time. Even so, competition in the under 12 group is much closer than the other groups, with only 109 points separating second from ninth.

The ranking of the top women is much the same, with the top three a mile ahead of the rest. Cathy Rogers lost her fifth place to Natalie Mills; Collins & Craig swapped places. Bo Remenyi played five games with good effect, moving into 12th place.

The Top Improvers list is the most interesting. Special congratulations are due to David Beaumont who played 58 games for his SO rating increase of 354. His challenge now will be to hold onto his gain. Lad Zeve's effort was pretty outstanding, too: 152 in April, 234 in August. Then there's Grant Szuveges: 109 in December, 130 in April, 196 in August. Is that steady improvement? Max Leskiewicz 167 in April, 189 in August.

FIDE International Ratings List

I have seen the IRL for July 1993, and it makes interesting reading for those who follow the fortunes of foreign and top Australian players. IM G Hjorth is on the inactive list. GMs Raymond Keene (ENG) (2455) & R J Fischer (USA) (2780) are inactive.

A few trivia: Australia has more FIDE-rated players (57) than Indonesia (21), Singapore (31), Philippines (48) or even China (48). China is strongest at the top: 6 rated 2500+, and has more women (22).

The World's Top 100 is headed by Karpov (Russia, 2760), Anand (India, 2725), Kramnik (Russia, 2710), Ivanchuk (Ukraine, 2705). Ian Rogers (2595) shares 54-58 with Oll (Ind), Kozul (Bosnia & Herzegovina), Kransenkov (Poland) and Ljubojevic (Yugoslavia). How a player makes the top 100 without becoming a GM I don't know, but Zoltan Almasi (Hungary, 2580), Dejan Mozetic (Yugoslavia, 2580), Ilya Gurevich (USA, 2575) and Thien Hai Dao (Vietnam, 2565) have done it. Dao shares 98-104 with Miles, Chandler, Spassky & some others.

The World's top 50 Women's list is headed by Judit Polgar (Hungary, 2630), Zsuzsa Polgar (Hungary, 2545), Pia Chamling (Sweden, 2525), Maia Chiburdanidze (Georgia, 2510), Jun Xie (China, 2475). Aussie women wanting to rate a mention currently need a FIDE rating around 2320 to make the list.

In addition to being ranked second outright, Kramnik is the top junior!! J Polgar, is top woman, top girl and sixth junior. Peter Leko, (aged 14, Hungary, 2555) is ninth junior.

FIDE has a list of unrated titled players which includes Carin Craig, Woman FM, South Australia. The Australians appearing in the IRL are listed on page 8.

The ACF Rating System

John Summerfield

The ACF produces three ratings lists per year. The publication dates and deadlines for submission of correctly-coded results to the National Ratings Officer are:

Period	Closing date
April	Feb 28
August	Jun 30
December	Oct 31

These deadlines are set to allow time for the National Ratings Officer to process all the results and produce the ratings booklets.

Our ambition is to have the ratings booklet, master-file and new databases distributed by the time the new ratings become effective. It takes time to produce the masters for printing, and then more time to pass them on to the printer, and for the printer to schedule the work.

Any problems with incorrectly-record events, bad disks, missing results and so on can easily add days to the time it takes to produce the new ratings list. Please take great care in providing tournament results, and if you have any questions, take them up with your State Ratings Officer.

Club officials are responsible for supplying accurate, complete and legible information to their State Ratings Officer. If tournament documents, such as pairing cards or draws & results are not provided to ratings officers, tournament organisers must pay particular attention to ensuring the information is copied accurately.

The National Ratings Officer only accepts results from the State Ratings Officers.

Acceptable events.

To be rated, Events must conform to these standards:
The rate of play in the first time-control must allow at least two minutes per move, and the first time-control must not be before move 30. Subsequent time-controls requiring a more rapid rate of play are allowed.

Events played under the FIDE rules for Sixty-Minute (Rapid) Chess also may be rated. Note that in such events, each player must be allowed at least 60 minutes for all his moves.

The event may not be a handicap event, for example material or time.

The event may not be a fixed-opening event.

The event must be approved by the state association and/or ACF for rating.

Telechess events will be rated unless all parties involved agree otherwise.

The event must be submitted to the National Ratings Officer in good time. Normally, events should be processed in the period in which they finish, or if the end is near the deadline, the next period.

Events reaching the National Ratings Officer more than one period late are worth little for calculating the current strength of players, and will be discarded. I know players who are regularly performing more than 400 ratings points above their published ratings even when their results are processed in good time.

Even when tournaments are processed promptly, it can be five months before they are reflected in published ratings. One list later, they are nine months old, two lists and over a year!

What the ACF needs to know.

Each player who plays in a rated event is assigned an identifying number, and this is used internally to match game results with the central player file.

To ensure that State Ratings Officers can match tournament results and changes to player details, certain basic information must be provided:

Usual first name
Family name (surname)
Initials
Gender
Birth-date

Ratings officers cannot be expected to record tournament results correctly when the information provided to them is inaccurate or ambiguous. In Victoria, we have two Michael Kagans and two Ladislav Zeves. I have heard that NSW has identical twins with the same first initial.

If tournament organisers provide ALL the information we ask, it greatly improves our chances of producing correct ratings.

In addition to help distinguish between players with similar names, the birth-date allows us to produce reports of top players in various age-groups, and to produce other statistical information. The ACF has recently decided to award veteran titles, and it would be useful to be able to produce tables showing how strong our senior players are. Perhaps players would like a list of the top 10 octogenarians?

Players who move interstate should ensure that tournament organisers know they have already played elsewhere in Australia; tournament organisers must report this information to the State Ratings Officer (if the change is more or less permanent), so the player file can be changed to reflect the player's new state.

Obtaining a Rating

To obtain a rating, you must play chess. When chessplayers are first recorded in the ratings Player File, they are classified as new players. Each time some of their results are recorded, their status is reviewed. Players who have played 1-9 games are classified as unrated. Their ratings are not published and they are usually ranked at the end of a player ranking list in tournaments. Players are reclassified as provisionally rated after nine games provided that they have scored at least 6.7% AND less than 100%. Provisionally-rated players may be reclassified as unrated if their accumulated score drops below 6.7%.

After the tournament in which players reach 30 games, they are given a confirmed rating provided that they have scored at least 6.7% and less than 100%. Players who do not meet the score guidelines remain classified as unrated, but they retain their playing history to be used to calculate their rating when they earn one.

The score of 6.7% is based on a score of at least two points from thirty games. A player's minimum rating will be around 422 below the average of all his opponents' ratings.

Calculating Ratings

As outlined in my introduction, I have changed the way ratings for new players are calculated. These changes are reflected in this description.

There are several different calculations made in determining a player's new rating. The choice of calculation depends on the circumstances.

I use the term partially-rated to describe a player who has played one or more rated games, but who does not have a confirmed rating. It includes unrated and provisionally-rated players.

For all calculations, results against unrated players are not used.

For a new player, a performance rating is calculated:

Symbol	Description
AR	Average of Opponents' ratings
TS	Total score
Sa	Score achieved
Se	Score expected
NG	Number of rated games
SR	the sum opponents ratings
NG	the number of rated games
R	Rating.
P	the probable percentage score from table 2.
RI	Rating increment
Rp	the performance rating.
Dp	the rating difference predicted in table 1.

Most of the above symbols may be suffixed with o (old) or n (new).

$$AR = SR/NG$$

$$Rp = AR + Dp$$

Example

Smith scores 1/5 against players with an average rating of 1250.

$$NG = 5$$

$$TS = 1$$

$Sa = \frac{1}{5} * 100 = 20$ . We locate the entry corresponding to 20% in table 1 and find  $Dp(20) = -240$ .

From the formula we have

$$Rp = 1250 + (-240) = 1250 - 240$$

$$Rp = 1010$$

Smith's performance rating is 1010.

Rp is retained as a provisional rating. If the player has fewer than 9 games against rated opponents, the provisional rating is not published and not used to calculate ratings of other players. NG, AR and TS are also retained.

For a partially-rated player

$$AR = \frac{ARo * NGO + SR}{NGo + NG}$$

$$Rpn = AR + Dp$$

Example

Smith plays another tournament, and scores 1.5/7 against a field averaging 1310.

We have

$$AR = \frac{1250 * 5 + 9170}{5 + 7}$$

$$AR = \frac{6250 + 9170}{12}$$

$$AR = \frac{15420}{12}$$

$$AR = 1285$$

$$TS = TSo + TSn = 1 + 1.5 = 2.5$$

$$Sa = \frac{2.5}{12} * 100 = .21 * 100 = 21$$

$$Rp = AR + DP(21) = 1285 + (-230)$$

$$Rp = 1050$$

If the player has now played 30 or more games, the player is considered rated with rating = Rp, and further rating changes are calculated accordingly.

Smith has played 12 games, and now has a provisional rating of 1050. Since he has played nine or more games, his provisional rating can be published on the next ratings list, and be used to calculate ratings of other players. Note that if Smith had scored less than  $\frac{1}{12}$ , his rating would not be published and would not be used to calculate other players' ratings.

For a player with an established rating:

$$RI = Sa - Se * 15 + BP$$

$$Se = P(AR - Ro) * NG$$

Table 1

P	Dp	P	Dp	P	Dp	P	Dp

At the end of processing for a ratings period, all rating increments for each player are added to his rating at the beginning of processing.

Bonus points may be awarded to players in tournaments exceeding five rounds as follows:

Games	Condition	Points
6-10	(Sa-Se) > 1	15*(Sa-Se-1)
11-15	(Sa-Se) > 2	15*(Sa-Se-2)
15	(Sa-Se) > 3	15*(Sa-Se-3)

Brown (1011.5) plays another tournament, and shows considerable improvement. Against a field averaging (after application of the 336 rule) 1210, he scores 4/7.

$$Sa = 4$$

$$Se = P(1210 - 1011.5) * 7 = P(198.5) * 7 = .25 * 7 = 1.75$$

$$BP = 15 * (4 - 1.75 - 1) = 15 * 1.25 = 18.75$$

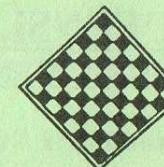

$$Ri = 52.50$$

In this case, Brown takes 33.75 ratings points from his opponents, and adds 18.75 to the ratings pool.
